2018 has been a very interesting year for ASCAME, the first one of my mandate. A year full of accomplishments but also of challenges and marked by the start of the implementation of the ambitious ASCAME 2018-2022 Strategic Plan.

The Mediterranean basin is a crossroad between very distinct cultures, religions and traditions. It is a sample of the world and its main challenges. In this context, with the purpose that policymakers and key economic actors listen to local realities of the Mediterranean region, ASCAME acts as a lobby for the private sector of the Mediterranean in order to achieve economic development in the region.
During 2018, ASCAME has done its best to respond to the global challenges of the world and to those specific challenges affecting the Mediterranean region, working in close cooperation with its members around the region. Our Association started the implementation of the new 2018-2022 Strategic Plan by introducing new ideas and concepts and continuing its established events and activities seeking to project and reinforce the potential of the Chambers of Commerce as fundamental pieces in the economic scenario of the Mediterranean region, and ensuring that the efforts at the local level have a regional and international impact and recognition.

In this regard, during 2018, many international events on a wide range of topics were organized offering a platform for enterprises and participants from around the world to meet and to exchange views on business opportunities, the region’s situation, its challenges and opportunities and the latest news and trends, establishing positive synergies between them. Among all these events, the MedaWeek Barcelona (Mediterranean Week of Economic Leaders), which is held every year gathering the leaders of the public and private sectors of all Mediterranean countries, remains the flagship event of ASCAME. During MedaWeek Barcelona 2018, our members could not only attend trending topic conferences concerning the Digital and Innovation sector, Human Capital, Blue Economy, the Halal Industry, the Hospitality sector and natural Gas supply and demand issues among others but also participate in ASCAME’s internal activities. Moreover, this year’s edition projected ASCAME further the Mediterranean region towards the American Continent by means of the cooperation agreement with the Arab Brazilian Chamber of Commerce, which offers ASCAME’s members plenty of possibilities for business cooperation and trade development between both regions.

Widely recognized as the advocate of sustainable and inclusive growth, the private sector is becoming today a vital complement of the public sector in the decision processes regarding the future of the region. Indeed, it contributes largely to the creation of wealth and jobs, and to the consolidation of a society based on equal opportunities, given that it ensures the participation of women, young and minorities in the economic development of the region. Therefore, ASCAME will always be at the disposal of the private sector and looking for ways to boost it.

In the field of Projects, our Association has carried out excellent work, reaching the last stages of many successful projects and engaging in new ones. In this regard, the ASCAME Network demonstrated its importance by being overwhelmingly present in many calls for project proposals of this year, such as the ENI CBC MED Programme; and also by winning in a very significant number of the cases.
This achievement is very relevant as it ensures the presence of the Mediterranean private sector in the projects for the development of the Mediterranean economy.

Regarding Institutional Relations, our Association is always pursuing new partnerships to expand its network. Therefore, in 2018 new collaboration agreements were celebrated and relations with relevant public and private actors were established.

During the past year, ASCAME has done its best to support its members, Chambers of Commerce and Industry and similar entities, in their initiatives and activities, by supporting them in the organization of their events, promotion and training. For this reason, and in line with our Strategic Plan, we launched the ASCAME Member and Network Help Desk at the beginning of 2018, which has proved to be a very powerful tool when communicating and promoting members’ activities through our network.

Looking to the months and years ahead, following its 2018-2022 Strategic Plan, ASCAME will continue being a strong ally in the work for the Mediterranean development, open and keen to look for new partnerships, ideas and activities for the benefit of its members. The Association will seek a worldwide strategy of promotion of the Mediterranean and to introduce new ideas and instruments to achieve its objectives, while getting closer to its members, the real core of ASCAME.

If you are interested in our mission to unite all the key players of the Mediterranean private sector in order to contribute to the economic development of the area; and if you share our vision to work for the participation and presence of the Mediterranean private sector in the key decisions taken by public and private actors every day; I invite you to join us. If you are already a member of ASCAME, I hope that we can continue to work together, and even closer, to achieve our common objectives and fight our common challenges. I am sure that we have very interesting years ahead.
Numerous key sectorial events and initiatives opening a debate on more than 30 relevant topics addressed to answer the main priorities for regional development

More than 4,500 attendees, most of them business and SMEs representatives

Hundreds of B2B meeting events organized or co-organized by ASCAME and its Network across the Mediterranean to promote businesses in the region

Participation in dozens of Euro-Mediterranean high-level institutional meetings and thematic conferences as main representatives of the Mediterranean private sector

More than 400 prominent speakers and dozens of decision makers from across the Mediterranean

Dozens of meetings of cooperation projects and initiatives in line with the UN Sustainable Development Goals
2018 was the first year of application of the ASCAME 2018-2022 Strategic Plan, which falls under the following main axes:

1. Promotion of the Mediterranean economic development through the initiatives of the 20+20 Barcelona Declaration.

2. ASCAME internal development. New strategies for the interaction with the ASCAME Network, communication, events and projects: new approaches characterized by being more proactive and member-centred.

3. New instruments and programmes to develop the mission of ASCAME and enhance its horizons. New categories of members and new initiatives in order to promote the Mediterranean region.

To sum up, these strategic lines specify the identity and mission of ASCAME, which is to defend the interests of the Mediterranean Chambers of Commerce and Industry, and more generally, those of the private sector. It is essential to give our Association the capacity and the means to assert itself more as a key agent of regional development in the Mediterranean and beyond. This is why it is necessary to implement a new strategy, create new tools and products, in order to capture new resources and new members, continuing the progress that our Association has made in the latest years. To sum up, ASCAME must keep working for common cooperation that does not stop.

From an external point of view, we must further mobilize our efforts to consolidate Mediterranean companies through the Chambers of Commerce, as key actors and partners against their counterparts overseas, in order to boost international trade and investment, a source of economic growth and social development. Also, another important area of work of the next years will be the support of entrepreneur women and young graduates.

From an internal point of view, ASCAME must find a way to highlight its importance for its members and network. To this end, the Association is developing new instruments that underline its meaning, contribution and value for the members, communicating its indisputable contribution and its condition of optimal economic spokesperson with global reach, regional impact and capacity of repercussion and local action.

During 2018, as the first year of application of the 2018-2022 Strategic Plan, ASCAME started working on these strategic lines and concrete measures were taken.

Regarding the internal development of ASCAME and the services offered by the Association, the ASCAME Member and Network Help Desk was launched. The aim of the Member and Network Help Desk is to establish a direct and permanent contact line with the members in order to provide advice in the different areas of interest of ASCAME as well as to facilitate communication within ASCAME’s network and with other actors. Regarding the services offered to ASCAME’s members and network, it provides member-centred attention to answer advisory consults on events, projects, communication and network of the Association.

ASCAME has also developed its communication and events strategy through the creation of new promotional materials and instruments, such as the Brochure of ASCAME. In the field of Projects, the Association has worked hard to involve ASCAME as an organization as well as its members in the latest Euro-Mediterranean calls for Projects, obtaining a relevant success.

Regarding the 20+20 Barcelona Declaration and its specific objectives, present in the 2018-2022 Strategic Plan, ASCAME has worked to boost the entrepreneurial and innovative spirit and to reinforce the role of Mediterranean Women. for instance, ASCAME organized the 1st Mediterranean Innovation and Digital Summit in the framework of MedaWeek Barcelona 2018 and co-organized the 10th Mediterranean Women Entrepreneurs Forum.

The Association has also devoted many efforts to support and promote the activities of its Working Commissions encouraging them to meet in the context of ASCAME’s main events. For instance, that was the case of the Transport and Logistics Working Commission that gathered during the MedaLogistics Summit in June 2018 and the experience of 9 other Working Commissions during the last MedaWeek Barcelona in November 2018.

Besides, ASCAME encouraged the Mediterranean private sector to commit towards the good governance and the consolidation of Corporate Social Responsibility by promoting the activity of its Business Ethics Working Commission and by participating in sectorial events on good practices for the private sector and related institutions.

ASCAME has also worked for sustainable development in the Mediterranean and reaffirmed its commitment to the SDG 2030 goals through its participation in a wide range of activities. Many of them were deployed by its Working Commissions, such as the Renewable Energies Commission and also by project activities and their related events dedicated to the sustainable development, such as the InnoBlueGrowth Project which advocates for blue economy.

During the following months, ASCAME will keep working on the full implementation of its 2018-2022 Strategic Plan, for the benefit of its network and the development of the Mediterranean. In order to meet the specific necessities of the new Strategic Plan and to offer the best attention to its members and network, the General Secretariat of ASCAME is going through a reshuffle of its working areas.

On November 21st, in the framework of MedaWeek Barcelona 2018, nine Working Commissions of ASCAME held meetings to discuss their Plans of Action for 2019.

Among many interesting ideas and proposals, the need of cooperation between Working Commissions was highlighted, taking into account that the Working Commissions have similar objectives and challenges and that the members of ASCAME can be part of more than a single Commission. In this regard, some Commissions held joint meetings in order to join forces and participation.

The Working Commissions discussed their current situation, objectives, ideas and proposals for their Plans of Action, in the framework of the new ASCAME Strategic Plan 2018-2022. 4.2. MEMORANDA OF UNDERSTANDING

During 2018, ASCAME continued its efforts to expand its cooperation agreements network with the purpose of offering larger possibilities of cooperation and better services and frameworks for economic cooperation to its members.

With this aim, ASCAME held many institutional meetings addressed to get new and improved possibilities of cooperation to its members. Some of those meetings were translated into specific agreements of cooperation that were signed in 2018, and in some other cases, they already opened new lines of action and great expectations for cooperation for 2019.

Arab Brazilian Chamber of Commerce (CCAB)

ASCAME and the Arab Brazilian Chambers of Commerce reached an agreement that projects ASCAME’s activities beyond the Mediterranean region and opens a gate towards the American continent. The MoU was signed by Mr. Ahmed M. El Wakil, President of ASCAME, and Mr. Ruben Hannun, President of the Arab Brazilian Chamber of Commerce (CCAB), on 21st November 2018, in Barcelona.
By means of this cooperation agreement, both organizations consolidate the socio-economic relations among the Arab countries and Brazil and by extension with the whole Mediterranean through the Chambers of Commerce and other economic and business actors, considered as drivers of regional development.

This agreement establishes a program of actions aimed at the promotion of the economic and commercial relations. Among these actions, it is necessary to highlight the exchange of trade missions and the participation of Mediterranean and Brazilian business people at fairs and exhibitions. Thus, ASCAME and CCAB are planning to organize a great economic forum that will bring together the Mediterranean and the American economic world, in the city of Sao Paulo (Brazil), in the year 2020.

Agency for the Economic and Cultural North-South Development (ADEC-NS)

The conference was a great opportunity to promote ASCAME and answer the main concerns of COBATY members regarding its interest to become an associate member of ASCAME. The event provided a

MedaLogistics Summit (Mediterranean Logistics & Transport Summit)

The MedaLogistics Summit was held on 5th and 6th June 2018 within the framework of the 20th edition of SIL Barcelona, the Leading Exhibition for Logistics, Transport, Intralogistics and Supply Chain in Southern Europe. The Summit opened the door to efficient and sustainable logistics to guarantee prosperity and regional integration.

The Summit was organized by ASCAME together with Consorci de la Zona Franca de Barcelona (CZFB) and with the support of the Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Navigation of Barcelona.

Mr Anwar Zibaoui, General Coordinator of ASCAME, during the Opening of the MedaLogistics Summit
The MedaLogistics Summit was composed of two events: the 16th Mediterranean Logistics and Transport Forum on 5th June and the 11th Mediterranean Ports and Shipping Summit on 6th June.

During the 6 sessions of the two days, around 320 participants from more than 20 countries attended the event, including representatives of organizations, international and regional associations, as well as entrepreneurs and experts linked to the logistics sector. The event offered varied and successful sessions on trending topics in the region.

On the first day of the Summit, the 16th Mediterranean Logistics and Transport Forum addressed key issues such as the unstoppable boom in Chinese investment in the region and new routes such as the Silk Road, where the Mediterranean is the undisputed centre of gravity for trade and logistics, especially between Asia, Europe and Africa. The Summit has served as a scenario to make an urgent call to promote an efficient terrestrial, air and maritime communication network and to promote multimodal corridors; notably the “Mediterranean Corridor” and its connection with North Africa, as an essential requirement for regional integration and to strengthen itself in the face of global competition.

The forum also dealt with the economic opportunities that airports offer, as major generators of jobs in activities directly associated with the channelling of air traffic, and also by the tourism activity they promote.
The 16th Mediterranean Logistics and Transport Forum counted with prominent speakers from the Middle East, the African continent and Europe such as Mr Jamil Mujahed, former Minister of Transport of Jordan; Mr Ali Tounsi, Secretary General of the Airports Council International – ACI Africa; Mr José Manuel Fernández Bosch, CEO International Development of Aena; Mr Francisco Aranda, General Secretary of UNO, Business Organization of Logistics and Transport and Mr Juergen Schmitt, Director of Ekol Logistics Spain, among others.

During the second day of the Summit, the 11th Mediterranean Ports and Shipping Summit addressed the so-called blue economy. It should be noted that, to date, the Mediterranean region has more than 450 ports and terminals, representing 30% of the world's maritime trade by volume, and is the second largest destination in the world for cruise tourism, housing a coastal population of 150 million people.

The Summit counted with high-level representatives of many Ports Authorities such as: Mr Jordi Torrent, Strategy Director from the Port of Barcelona; Mr Vittorio Torbianelli, International Relations from the Port Network Authority of the Eastern Adriatic Sea; or Mr Arnaud Rieutort, Commercial Manager from the Port of Sète.

Furthermore, the Ports Summit also counted with the participation of relevant speakers of companies and organizations from all over the Mediterranean such as: Mr Jose Estrada, President of ELMED; Mr Arnaud Tisseau, CEO Africa Logistics Holding; Mr Tomas Garcia-Lomas, Manager for Illicit Trade Prevention, Mr

Mr Francesc Carbonell. Senior Head of Sector for Transport - Union for the Mediterranean (UfM) during the Opening of the 16th Mediterranean Logistics and Transport Forum, 5th June 2018

The Summit served as a scenario to make an urgent call to promote an efficient terrestrial, air and maritime communication network and to promote mainly the Mediterranean Corridor.
Philip Morris International Management S.A; or Mr Bojan Hlaca, Professor at the Faculty of Maritime Rijeka, University of Rijeka.

The MedaLogistics Summit reflected the need to create public-private partnerships in order to achieve more efficient and sustainable logistics through the implementation of new systems of management that cheapen costs, making better use of infrastructures and improving waste management and introducing new eco-efficient means of transport. All this to project the Mediterranean region, the point of confluence of three continents - Asia, Europe and Africa - where several hundred million people live, as a great platform-region with unique characteristics to facilitate world trade.

The cooperation presented in this forum for 16 consecutive years has opened the door to many attractive and unprecedented opportunities for investment and services in the field of transport and logistics.

ASCAME, as the organizer of the meeting, expressed its willingness to support and lead the creation of highly necessary cooperation.

This year’s edition of MedaWeek Barcelona called the Mediterranean governments to promote the Digital Agenda among their main priorities so that Mediterranean SMEs could benefit from special aid plans.

With this aim, the Mediterranean Innovation & Digital Summit was the main axis of this year’s programme being structured in 4 different events trying to give a deep insight of the main challenges of the digital agenda: The Mediterranean Innovation Forum, Mediterranean Digital & Technology Forum, Mediterranean Start-up & Entrepreneurship Forum and Finance & Funds for the Mediterranean Entrepreneurship Meeting.

In addition, during MedaWeek Barcelona several highly acclaimed forums were held such as:

The North Africa Business Development Forum (NABDF) is one of the most iconic fora of the MedaWeek Barcelona as it lays the groundwork for exploring the most relevant topics in the region. After 15 editions of great success, the NABDF addressed the economic climate in North Africa, as well as its repercussions on politics and society. Represented by the business communities of both North Africa and Southern Europe, this Forum shines light on key economic trends – for instance, this year’s edition placed also emphasis on some aspects of digital economy discussing the challenges of a collaborative software-based economy and the controversial relationship between regulations and entrepreneurship- and developments across the region. Besides, NABDF highlighted the potential of Maghreb not only in terms of new investment opportunities for enterprises and investors but also as a gateway to the African continent.
NABDF counted with prominent speakers from principal Mediterranean and sectoral institutions as well as high-level representatives of the private sector such as Mr Fathallah Sijilmassi, former Secretary General of the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM); Mrs Houda Benghazi, General Manager of Morocco-Spain Economic Council (CEMAES); Mr Roger Albinyana, Director of Mediterranean Regional Policies and Human Development of the European Institute of the Mediterranean (IEMed); Mr Mondher Khanfir, Impact Entrepreneur, Investor and Policy advisor; Mr José R. The Mediterranean Halal Forum addressed how the halal industry is becoming more than a universal icon or ecosystem of high quality and wholesomeness than a mere certification associated with religion. The global halal market has now expanded beyond the food sector to pharmaceuticals, health products, medical devices, cosmetics, travel and tourism, fashion, as well as the service sector components such as logistics, marketing, print and electronic media, packaging, branding, and financing. The number of companies that want to get the halal certification has been growing in recent years and experts estimate that by 2022 the industry will grow over 58.3 billion. The need to evaluate the impact of those trends, opportunities and investments of the Halal Industry in the Mediterranean as well as to discuss how to redefine regulatory procedures and set up new standards in the Halal Industry, were the issues at the core of the debate.
The Halal Forum counted with the participation of high-level speakers from main Halal sectorial organizations and regulatory institutions such as Mr Ihsan Övüt, Secretary General of the Standard and Metrology Institute for the Islamic Countries (SMIIC); or Mrs Isabel Romero, President of the Halal Institute (Spain). In this edition, MedaTalks was introduced for the first time, an open platform serving to discuss trending topics taking into account social, political and economic transformations and growing economic potentialities. In this occasion, it addressed The Future of Natural Gas Supply and Demand in the Mediterranean as well as the new gas producing countries of the Eastern Mediterranean and the need for regional cooperation to take benefit of this situation.
The exploitation of new gas-offshore deposits on the coasts of the Mediterranean countries could be a fundamental engine for development and economic growth of the entire region. Regional cooperation in the gas sector in the Mediterranean can deliver important benefits not only to the producing countries but also to the European Union in terms of diversification of its supply sources and increase the capacity of gas exports through the Mediterranean region.

All those issues were discussed and analysed by regional and sectoral institutions and high-level experts such as Mr Jorge Borrego, Deputy Secretary General for Energy and Climate Action of the Union of the Mediterranean (UfM); Mrs Houida Ben Jannet Allal, General Director of the Mediterranean Energy Observatory (OME); or Mr Leonidas Kioussis, Senior Expert of the DG ENER of the European Commission. The 2018 edition took the form of a Roadshow under the theme “The incorporation of Women entrepreneurs in the digital economy” explored topics relevant to a changing society using innovative tools and unconventional approaches. Businesswomen, policymakers, entrepreneurs and spokespeople from various sectors were present throughout the event to share experiences and encourage public discussion.
During the opening session, the President of ASCAME, Dr El Wakil, highlighted that: “the Mediterranean socio-political and economic scenario is rapidly changing, due to events such as the escalating migration crisis, the political upheavals in North Africa, the sovereign debt crises and change of governments in southern Mediterranean countries. These events make it even more important today to highlight the strong correlation existing between the socio-political and economic dynamics in the region.” ASCAME and its partners commit to keeping working together towards promotion of full socio-economic cooperation between the two shores of the Mediterranean.

Throughout the two days of the event, various plenary sessions on the theme of digitalization and several B2B meeting sessions were organized. It was the occasion to present the EBSOMED project in detail. Particularly the opportunities for small and medium-sized enterprises to benefit from workshops, seminars, training and exchange of best practices. 2018 has been a fruitful year for the ASCAME network when it comes to the involvement in Euro-Mediterranean cooperation projects with impact in both shores of the region.

In addition to the ongoing projects that the ASCAME General Secretariat and its network have been successfully implementing during the last years, some dozens of projects proposals from all the ASCAME network were shortlisted during the call for proposals for standard ENI CBC MED projects.

Both, ongoing and new projects, are contributing to strengthening the activity and results of the ASCAME members in a direct way by their participation as partners, and an indirect way, benefiting from the actions and outcomes of projects implemented by the ASCAME network.

Additionally, within the framework of different projects, ASCAME implements several cross-sectoral activities targeting Business Support Organisations (BSOs) and SMEs aiming at:

- Improving competencies of BSOs such as Chambers of Commerce
- Building a large, robust and efficient BSO network among EuroMed region
- Maximising business exchanges and investment
6.1. 2018 ASCAME PROJECTS ACTIVITIES

EBSOMED Project

The project aims at boosting the Mediterranean Business Ecosystem, promoting inclusive economic development and job creation, by enhancing the private sector organisations in the Southern Neighbourhood countries.

ASCAME is one of the main actors of the project due to the strategic importance that EBSOMED gives to business support organisations such as the Chambers of Commerce of the Mediterranean region, and the fact that the vast majority of them are members of ASCAME.

During the course of 2018, ASCAME and its members organised 6 days of events in Spain, Italy and Jordan involving more than 300 participants in total from 21 different countries with high participation from Jordan, Spain, Lebanon, Tunisia, Morocco, Italy and Egypt.

The topics covered during these events were:

- The incorporation of Women entrepreneurs in the digital economy
- Support and Improve the Quality of Business Support Organisations (BSO) & Promote BSO Networking. “Regional Business Dialogue”
- Mediterranean Talent – Diverse, Mobile and Connected
- Euro-Med funding opportunities
One of the target groups of these actions were Business Support Organisations, therefore all the actions were open to the ASCAME network and about 25% of beneficiaries of these actions are indeed members of ASCAME.

The actions paid special attention to the ASCAME strategic lines of inclusive economic development by enhancing the private sector organisations in the ENI South Partner countries and the reinforcement of the role of Mediterranean women in the Mediterranean economy.

Along these lines, 66% of beneficiaries were from countries of the south of the Mediterranean and 34% of the north of the Mediterranean. 60% of the beneficiaries were women and 40% men:
The main objective of the Blue Growth Community is to build a real community of projects dealing with Blue Economy initiatives and to reinforce the partnerships between projects and transnational key stakeholders for a better-integrated policy-making.

ASCAME, as a partner of the Horizontal InnoBlueGrowth project and responsible of the communication, contributed to the Mid-Term event which was one of the main milestones of the project, by proposing high impact and interactive performances and providing suggestions regarding exhibition and communication issues and speakers for the thematic sessions.

During the course of 2018, ASCAME organised and co-organised 6 days of events in Italy, Greece and Spain involving more than 400 participants in total from 18 different countries with high participation from Italy, Spain, Greece, France, Croatia, Portugal and Cyprus.

These actions impacted mainly north Mediterranean countries due to the target countries included in the cooperation area of the Interreg Med programme.
This project contributes to ASCAME strategic lines of encouraging the private sector to move towards a sustainable economy as well as to engage in the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

ASCAME members with an interest in the blue economy sector are encouraged to participate in the different actions and can benefit from the network links and capitalisation of the results of the project.

The topics developed during 2018 actions were mainly:

• The strong potential of the Blue Economy for the regional private sector
• The Cluster approach for a sustainable Blue Growth in the Med
• Public engagement and awareness raising, market development, sustainability and clusters in the blue growth context

The “Mediterranean Initiative for Jobs (Med4Jobs)” is a flagship initiative of the Union of the Mediterranean (UfM) to help increase the employability of youth and women, close the gap between labour and supply and foster a culture of entrepreneurship and private sector development. Developed by the UfM Secretariat, Med4Jobs is a cross-sector initiative driven by the need for an integrated regional initiative in the area of job creation.

It aims to promote and replicate a number of visible private sector job creation projects in the Southern and Eastern Mediterranean region. So far, 13 projects have been labelled under the Med4Jobs programme such as Incorpora, Young Women as Job Creators, the Mediterranean Entrepreneurs Network, HOMERe - High Opportunity for Mediterranean Executive Recruitment, MedNC- New Chance Mediterranean Network, among others.

HOMERe

ASCAME, as part of the Consortium for this project, is actively supporting HOMERe’s project. The project promotes internship mobility between Mediterranean countries, mainly to high-profile students in their last year of study before graduation.

This event aims to promote the internship abroad and to increase exchanges between companies, Euro-Mediterranean universities and local authorities.
BleuTourMed

ASCAME, as an associated partner, supports BleuTourMed project, which aims to study, test and capitalise innovative instruments and actions towards the enhancement of tourism sustainability in the Mediterranean.

A key role in this path is played by Cultural and Creative Industries (CCIs): by providing their expertise to companies as knowledge providers, in combination with ‘new innovation agents’ (fab-labs, maker spaces, etc.), CCIs shall trigger creativity and innovation in both traditional and emerging blue economy sectors.

The consortium of this project is composed of various ASCAME’s members: Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Barcelona, Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Seville, Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Marseille, Croatian Chamber of Economy Zadar County Chamber (HR).
